Hello, our team's name is Edoc and i will further present the app entitled E-dochub and the role it fulfills in the life of a student. Our app adresses to a large mass of students that are looking forward to applying to their university of choice by creating their own portofolios containing their achievemnts and the activities they attend to, along with finding all the information for what they are particulalry searching for.

Here you log in the app, you add your personal data and click submit to create the account.

This is the startpage where you can find every section in the app (this comes very easy if you would like to access it from your mobile phone) and you simply click to view the page of your account/ events/ admission/(feed)/contact.

On the feed you are able to view latest reccomandations and also templates and types of activities, competitions of other users for inspiration.

Then there is "My account" and if you click on it, you see everything about you: your own portofolio where you can add diplomas, results, competitions, prizes you have won and which you are able to share via email (if you want to send it directly to the university you can do that) and download it as a PDF.

"My profile" is your confidential information in which you can edit as well and of course "My faculties" is where you save your university options and you also have the possibility of writing and checking the required results, experience, courses and activity for getting into each university.

What does "Events" stand for? Well, This is where the students can have access to volunteering events, educational activities and courses they need for their portofolios and where we promote companies hosting these educational events by displaying the links of the google forms for the registration to the related activities/courses. These companies pay us for recomanding them on the first page from the events feed on an app accessed by all the students that want to create an organized portofolio for their future. As an example: Volunteering events, cultural etc.

In "Admission" you view the links that lead to the university you add, you also have a short description about the university and its admission requiremens (this is really helpful for any student to compare this List to the one they have created in "My faculties" .

In "Contact" you will be able to contact us and find out more about us, here is displayed a description. If you click the search bar and type anything related to the information you have added you will imediatelly find it without any problem.

Thank you for your attention and i would like to add that our goal regarding this app is to encourage all students to not only be organized with their valuable documents and information but also support their dream of being admitted to the university of their dreams and following their maximum capacities along with gaining as much substantial experience as possible because knowledge is important, but added to experience and passion represents far more, and without a clear and organized structure, it is very hard to achieve it.

To create the code, we used the HTML, CSS, and JavaScript languages and used both components created by us and example components from bootstrap.
